SHERIFF IN U.S. COURT TODAY

MOTHER SLAIN,
NOT A SUICIDE,
STATE CHARGES

Fox Lake Cottage
Mystery Grows.

(Pictures on back page.)
Mrs. Arthur Holt, 49 years old, and quite matronly in type, is dead from gunshot wounds suffered after a violent family quarrel at her summer cottage at Fox Lake Sunday.

Her daughter, Mrs. Clara Harcq, of a most attractive type and just past forty years, although appearing much younger, held in jail at Waukegan, during a probable charge of murder,
but insisting her mother was a suicide.

Mrs. Holt's husband, Arthur Holt, now past 40 years and a debonair and youthful type, also is held in the Waukegan jail, accused with Mrs.
Harcq in warrants already drawn, and charging murder.

Found Four Wounds.

This was the strange and mysterious tragedy situation which confronts State's Attorney A. V. Smith of
Lake county, who is confident Mrs.
Holt's wounds, of which there were four, were not self-inflicted.

On the other hand, there was Mrs. Harcq and Holt insisting that Mrs. Holt had committed suicide and that there has been nothing in their relationship other than that of the stepdaughter and son.

LOCAL.

Sheriff Hoffman says Capt. Westbrook, as jailer, neither obeyed law
nor specific orders on Terry Druggan and Frank Lake; contempt hearing reopens today before Judge Wilkerson.

Responsibility for the discharge of Lake and the attempted discharge of Druggan, each 22 days before their sentences had elapsed, is placed in the answering upon the deposited warden, Capt.
Westbrook. Documentary evidence is cited showing that Westbrook, ignoring advice from the government authorities, permitted Lake's early discharge.

Also to be filed today are the answers to the contempt citation of Druggan, Lake, former Assistant Superintendents Hans Thompson and James Fitzgerald, and three other discharged jail attachés.

Westbrook Blames Hoffman.

Capt. Westbrook's counsel, Senator James J. Barbour, obtained another day's grace in which the former warden will answer to be filed.

But Senator Barbour made Westbrook answer public. Contrasting the answers of Sheriff Hoffman and of Westbrook, it appears that the exwardens, pleading many absences from the jail, shifts the blame to the sheriff as the titular head of the jail, and that the sheriff, showing how Westbrook had disregarded his orders,
makes Westbrook his target.

Druggan and Lake, in the answer

of their attorneys, Thomas Symmes and Robert N. Golding, will file, assert that they did no wrong, bribed neither Westbrook nor his deputies; that they received no favors; that they were absent from the jail only to receive medical and dental treatment, and that they are entitled to the full 52 days of their sentences for good behavior.

The answers of the jail employees join in contending that all their acts were honorable and legal. At no time was either Druggan or Lake given treatment not accorded to any other prisoner, according to the general trend of the answers.

Basis of Hoffman Defense.

Sheriff Hoffman's answer makes the following general points which his attorney, Charles V. Barrett, has set forth to clear the sheriff of every suspicion:

1. Westbrook was named warden by former Sheriff Charles J. Peters at the insistence of reformers and civic associations, after the escape of Tommy O'Connor, under the sentence of death, from the jail.

2. Westbrook is a practicing lawyer, well versed in prison law.
It was his duty as a statutory officer to fix the time allowance for good behavior for Druggan and Lake.

3. The warden sought extra advice, and the sheriff obtained it from federal authorities, who said the allowance should be sixty days.

4. Disregarding all this, Westbrook gave orders which permitted Lake and Druggan to be discharged, each before his sentence had elapsed.

5. By no order, verbal or written, did Sheriff Hoffman procure any privilege for either prisoner. One latter directed Westbrook to permit Druggan to receive a dental treatment outside the jail, "the same as any other prisoner in the jail."

Sheriff Boss of 565 Employees.

The sheriff points out that with 565 employees under his direction, it is impossible for him personally to superintend the duties of all, and that each of the various departments has a designated head who is charged with the responsibility of that department.

Relying on the excellent indorsements of Westbrook, Sheriff Hoffman says he reappointed him, fully confident that he would properly administer the jail duties. Until very recently that confidence has not been shaken,
according to the sheriff's answer.

Still in Golf Toga.

Mr. and Mrs. Harcq were then in the jail. Holt, a slender young man, was still in the jail. So was Harcq, also slender, and healthy looking.
He came into the courtroom, a blonde girl with a Mary Poppins-like face, and buried her head in the shoulder of a motherly woman who said she was a friend of the deceased.

Gen. Patrick stated that it is now composed of 800 officers, 100 flying cadets, and 5,000 enlisted men. When he was 18 months ago the Lascells board had recommended that the force be increased to 4,000 officers, 2,500 flying cadets, and 25,000 enlisted men.

This report had gone to Secretary of War Weeks and that was the last heard of it. Later the information was elicited from Gen. Hines that nothing had come of the Lascells' recommendation because of a disagreement between the secretaries of war and of navy regarding submission of the proposal to congress.

In contrast with the Mitchell assertion that the army has but a handful of aircraft, up to date planes, Gen. Patrick said he has 306 fit for an emergency. Of these, 90 are bombardment planes, 249 observation planes, 26 pursuit planes and 31 training planes. He stated he had 40 obsolete planes and 1,000 others that could be used.

Pear of Any Nation in Air.

"At no time in the last five years," Gen. Patrick said, "has any country possessed better types of planes. The development of planes has been rapid in all countries. They become obsolete as fast as built. Our policy and that of our government is to have in mind is to build a few planes at home which we can supply as far as possible till we are sure of the type we want for quantity production. Attack planes were developed at the end of the war and nobody knows yet what type should be employed. At present we are relying on a faster and more maneuverable plane armed with machine guns and small bombs."

"Bombing planes are in a state of uncertainty. The bombing bombing tests attracted attention to the possibility of sinking surface ships and our planes are now designed to carry 2,000 pound bombs and could carry a 12,000 pound bomb in emergency." There is a sound use for dirigibles and other lighter-than-air craft the general maintained. It might be very important to be prepared to have dirigibles able to reinforce the Panama Canal with airplanes and flyers which they could carry that distance more quickly than could ships. Nine transport planes are being developed to carry personnel and material, and Panams has been furnished with two ambulance planes. Five all metal planes under construction.

Buying New Vessels.
From last year's appropriations $365 new planes are being procured and $100 more from this year's fund.

"The type you are buying," the general said, "is the type of the corresponding type possessed by any other nation and our pursuit and fighting planes are superior to those of any other country."

When it came down to what is the matter with the air force, the general, balancing his nose glasses on his left forefinger, rapidly pointed to the

NEW AIR MAIL ROUTES TO BE BID FOR NOV. 21; TWO INVOLVE CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Proposals for the operation of additional air mail contract routes between Detroit and Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit, Denver and Cheyenne, and Chicago and New Orleans by way of St. Louis, Memphis, and Jackson were invited today by Postmaster General Newell. Bids will be opened Nov. 21.

The time of arrivals and departures from Chicago and Cheyenne on the various services are based on the movements of the government transcontinental and regional services and are subject to arrivals and departures of planes in those services.

New points out that the rate for the new services is 10 cents an ounce for 1,000 miles or less and that letters handled in the contract services are entitled to a rate of 5 cents an ounce additional for each distance on the transcontinental service for each zone.

consider the air force an auxiliary arm. The air service officers had to wait a long time to compete with the ground forces, especially wait in the matter of promotions all along. Recommendations to remedy this will have been ignored for two years."

Uncle Sam a Slow Teller.

"You don't mean to say that all your recommendations have been ignored, do you?" quizzically inquired Senator Bingham [Rep., Conn.] a member of the board. "Now, for example, what new type of uniform you are wearing?"

Under questioning by Howard Coffin, member of the board, Gen. Patrick admitted that when he took charge of the air service he was opposed to a unified air force, but had changed his mind.

"I will say," he replied, "that I made my recommendations for this type of uniform in the spring of 1922 and this is the first suit of it I have had."

Gen. Patrick then developed his theory of defense composed of sea action, air action and land action. Each of these powers has a dominant role under given circumstances when it must be supported by the other two powers.

These three powers can only be coordinated effectively, in his opinion, by a supreme minister of national defense administering the war and of navy regarding subordination of the program to congress.

This report had gone to Secretary of War Weeks and that was the last heard of it. Later the information was elicited from Gen. Hines that nothing had come of the Lascells' recommendation because of a disagreement between the secretaries of war and of navy regarding submission of the proposal to congress.

"There is too much of a tendency to that on account of the superiority of aircraft our fleet should be scrapped," asked Representative Vinson.

"No. We must have a fleet, but it is a question what it should consist of. I have never stated battleships had been rendered obsolete by airplanes, but it is my conviction that aircraft can sink or put out or commission any surface craft."

"Should we keep our battleships up to the treaty ratio?"

"We should keep the navy up to the treaty ratio, but whether in battle or war or peace is a question."

Seaboard Safe—Just Now.

"Could any power take our seaboard today with airplanes?" asked Dwight Morrow, chairman of the board.

"I don't know that any power could do it today. But with the development of airplane carriers we are in distant parts of the world where we could meet the fleet farther out at sea. But they would be in very grave danger unless we had an adequate air force."

Gen. Patrick was holding forth on the views of Gen. Duval that the next war will be fought in the air and of Marshal Foch that the future air force might easily compel a nation to surrender before its navy or army could get into action, when Gen. Harbord asked:

"Have the Moroccans any air force?"

"Practically none," replied Gen. Patrick.

"Then," pursued Gen. Harbord, "how do you account for it that France with all her aircraft supremacy doesn't end the Moroccan war?"

"That's the very question I've asked myself," responded Gen. Patrick. "They explain that it is guerrilla warfare they are called on to cope with, but they have only just now concentrated 150 planes in Morocco. Why the French haven't got 1,000 planes there, I don't understand."

Under questioning by Howard Coffin, member of the board, Gen. Patrick admitted that when he took charge of the air service he was opposed to a unified air force, but had changed his mind.

that on account of the superiority of aircraft our fleet should be scrapped?" asked Representative Vinson.

"No. We must have a fleet, but it is a question what it should consist of. I have never stated battleships had been rendered obsolete by airplanes, but it is my conviction that aircraft can sink or put out or commission any surface craft."

"By the use of airplane carriers, the Hawaiian maneuvers demonstrated that an airplane carrier could launch its planes within 200 miles of the objective."

"The maneuvers demonstrated the great importance of aircraft," said Gen. Hines, "but no new tactics were developed. In fact, aircraft did not take as much of a part as I had hoped they would. I thought they would meet the fleet farther out at sea. But they were not sent out by the defending forces against the fleet. The defenders didn't take advantage of the opportunity or failed to understand it."

Gen. Hines thought aircraft never could supplant cavalry which can reconnoiter on foggy days when planes cannot, and can get information from contact with persons."

Acting Secretary of War Davis, the witness of the day, read a statement in which he assured the "American people that there was no need for fear about the condition of the nation's air forces." He insisted that with larger appropriations from congress the air service could be quickly put in such shape that no nation could cause us any apprehension by its air development.

Mr. Davis vigorously opposed Mitchell's plan for a separate department to handle the air service.

Chicago Tribune Press Service.
Sept. 21.—(AP)—

Col. William Mitchell, storm chaser of the army and navy air services, made no comment tonight on the official order relieving him of further duty as corps air officer.

At the same time Maj. Gen. Hinds, commanding the 8th corps area, who communicated the order to Col. Mitchell on Saturday but did not make it public until today, also refrained from any public explanation.

Gen. Hinds has no comment to make on the order. Col. J. F. Preston, corps chief of staff, said this afternoon: "The order was issued by Gen. Hinds Saturday and it became effective immediately. I can speak for Gen. Hinds in saying that he has no reasons to be made public for issuing the order."

Submitted by Assistant.

Capt. Thomas W. Haste, assistant to Col. Mitchell, automatically becomes acting corps air officer to fill the vacancy caused by the suspension of the officer who at one time during the world war commanded the entire allied air fleets and is said to be one of the most decorated men in the army.

Harry C. Short, civilian aide to Col. Mitchell, declared that the colonel had no comment to make on the order. Col. Mitchell is expected to remain at Fort Sam Houston until summoned by the aircraft investigating board in Washington or until war department orders are issued transferring him elsewhere.

No definite plans had been made to-night by Col. Mitchell to go to Washington for the aircraft inquiries. Short said, but if sufficient time is available between receipt of the summons and the date of his appearance, Col. Mitchell will make the trip overland in his automobile. Otherwise he is expected to go by airplane, Short said.

No Summons from Washington.

As far as could be learned no official summons had been received by Col. Mitchell to appear before the air board appointed by President Coolidge or before the board of investigating the wreck of the Shenandoah, although it is considered a certainty that he will be invited to substantiate his sensational charges of "negligent and almost treasonable conduct of the air service," in his statement of facts.

Although it could not be learned whether the relieving order was issued by Gen. Hinds upon suggestion of the war department, dispatches indicated that the question would be one solely for Gen. Hinds to pass upon, and Gen. Hinds was said to feel that Col. Mitchell's language in his published criticisms had been so insubordinate that it would not be fair to have him in a place where he should require obedience from his own subordinates.

Gen. Hinds has been ill in Paris for weeks. He decided to return. He was practically in a coma when he was placed aboard the boat train for

Builts $9,000,000 VILLA

GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

James Deering, 66 years old, was well known in the business world and in his former affiliation with the Harvester company, which his son, William Deering, founded and distinguished in art circles for its 100,000 estate and art palace, Villa Carlotta, near Miami, Fla.

Mr. Deering's only brother, Charles, serving from a freight house, was given a doctor's orders at his home in Miami. Mrs. Charles Deering accompanied by a daughter, Mrs. Chancery McCormick of Wheaton, Ill., Chicago yesterday for New York where she will be joined by her daughter, Mrs. Richard Ely Dan. Plans for the funeral, which probably will be held in Chicago, await the consideration of these three who will meet the steamer Paris on its dock.

Island Is Feature of Villa.

Conspicuous among the many engineering feats which 800 men performed on the land and water adjacent to the villa is the fact that the center of a stone constructed basic water front. Made in the shape of a large boat, with the lines gracefully slanting down into the water, this island is 230 feet long and 165 feet wide and is decorated with special lighting effects. Thousands of dollars were spent in dredging so that yachts might tie up to the pier of the boathouse.

In 1914, a year after the death of his father, William Deering, James gave to the Wreath Memorial Hospital $1,000,000 in memory of his father.

Officer of Harvester Firms.

Mr. Deering was born in South Pasadena, Calif., in 1858, the son of William and Clara Hamilton Deering. He attended Northwestern university and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. For many years he was vice president of his father's harvester company and since a consolidation in 1902 with the International Harvester company, he has been an official of the latter corporation.

His only sister, Mrs. Richard Howe, died in Chicago about ten years ago. His two nieces, Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Danielson, long have been Mr. Deering's favorites. At the time Villa Carlotta was building it was reported that the elaborate project was largely for the two young women. It has long been rumored that the estate and villa will be left to them jointly.

Later Mr. Deering bought up a thousand or so acres of land, choosing the spot that was soon to become a gold mine. Chicago friends yesterday recalled that this pioneer broker in Florida land had frequently made the remark that—

"Few men are lucky enough to buy a country home and be able to sell part of the estate for more than it cost."

The villa, Vizcaya, is set high on a terrace overlooking the lake, with a swimming pool, and a score of fountains.

Inside, the house is said to be nearly unique in its furnishings. There is hardly a modern door throughout the seventy-two rooms. There is not a single commercial lighting fixture, nor a material purchased from a dealer's stock, not a fringe, not a tassel that came from a store or shop.

Orville Taylor, counsel for Col. Sprague, asserted last night Mr. Proctor had gone back on his agreement with Col. Sprague to finance the singer and now sought to recover half his contribution because of its failure. A note for $100,000 given by the Wood campaign committee to a bank of which Col. Sprague was a director was endorsed by Sprague previous to its payment by Proctor, and Proctor contends Sprague signed the note as a co-guarantor. Mr. Taylor's statement said.

George B. Dryden, millionaire head of the Dryden Rubber company, prominent former president of the Chicago Athletic association, acted as assistant to the police last night in a chase for a stolen automobile.

Mr. Dryden was on his way to his home in Evanston when, at Sheridan road and Surf street, he was hailed by two Sheffield avenue policemen.

They had seen an automobile recently stolen from S. M. Engel, 115 South Wabash avenue, going by.

They asked him to pursue. Mr. Dryden accommodated. They followed the other car, but it was lost in the heavy traffic.

Mitchell and Hinds Silent on Air Critic's Suspension

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Col. William Mitchell, storm chaser of the army and navy air services, made no comment tonight on the official order relieving him of further duty as corps air officer.

At the same time Maj. Gen. Hinds, commanding the 8th corps area, who communicated the order to Col. Mitchell on Saturday but did not make it public until today, also refrained from any public explanation.

Gen. Hinds has no comment to make on the order. Col. J. F. Preston, corps chief of staff, said this afternoon: "The order was issued by Gen. Hinds Saturday and it became effective immediately. I can speak for Gen. Hinds in saying that he has no reasons to be made public for issuing the order."

Submitted by Assistant.

Capt. Thomas W. Haste, assistant to Col. Mitchell, automatically becomes acting corps air officer to fill the vacancy caused by the suspension of the officer who at one time during the world war commanded the entire allied air fleets and is said to be one of the most decorated men in the army.

Harry C. Short, civilian aide to Col. Mitchell, declared that the colonel had no comment to make on the order. Col. Mitchell is expected to remain at Fort Sam Houston until summoned by the aircraft investigating board in Washington or until war department orders are issued transferring him elsewhere.

No definite plans had been made to-night by Col. Mitchell to go to Washington for the aircraft inquiries. Short said, but if sufficient time is available between receipt of the summons and the date of his appearance, Col. Mitchell will make the trip overland in his automobile. Otherwise he is expected to go by airplane, Short said.

Gen. Hinds has been ill in Paris for weeks. He decided to return. He was practically in a coma when he was placed aboard the boat train for

MERCURY FALLS TO 54; SHOWERS FORECAST TODAY

The sudden drop in temperature which attended the autumnal equinox brought Chicagoans onto the street yesterday wearing heavier clothing and commenting on the arrival of fall. From a record peak of 90° Saturday afternoon, the mercury fell to 54 at 6 a. m. yesterday. The maximum for the day was 63 at 11 a. m.

The official prediction for today is unsettled with showers probable by tonight. There will not be much change in temperature.

Reports from mid-western states showed that the fall in temperature was general. Madison, Wis., reported a drop to 40, while in Illinois and Indiana the reading was generally from 55 to 60. The appearance of the aurora borealis in the northwest played havoc with telegraph service by causing spasmodic interruptions.

In Minnesota corn and sensitive garden crops were reported damaged by the cold.

FORMER PARSON NOW A SINGER IN HOTEL CAFE

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Germany's "fiery cross" episode has virtually come to an end with the deportation of Gotthard Stroschein of Chicago, former Lutheran minister and naturalized American, one of the founders of the "Knights of the Fiery Cross," an order similar to the Ku Klux Klan. Given six days to leave the country, he departed today for Warsaw.

Joseph Lycell, former pastor of the First Congregationalist Baptist church, is now a singer in the dining room of a north side hotel. He left the ministry after John Lindstedt, one of his parishioners, filed suit for divorce and charged him with being unduly friendly with Mrs. Lindstedt. Asserting his innocence of the charges, Lycell said that he found as much goodness and true religion among his present associates as among the members of the ladies' aid at the church.

YANKEE AIRMEN EYE GREAT DEED, LAUGH AT DEATH

Navy Selects Coolest for Hawaii Flight.

The map shows the route covered by Commander Rodgers and his crew in the PN-9 No. 1 in the flight to Hawaii. It indicates distances in miles between stops: 2100 miles from San Francisco to Oahu; 200 miles from Oahu to Maui; 100 miles from Maui to Hawaii; and 100 miles from Hawaii back to Oahu.

In the second installment of the thrilling story of the flight of the naval seaplane PN-9 No. 1, Commander Rodgers tells of the controversy over a proposal to delay the flight in order that a third plane could join in, of the decision to wait no longer, but to take advantage of favorable conditions at that time, and of the hearty cooperation he received from all branches of the service. He goes on to describe the takeoff in fair weather and the flight itself until the plane was forced to descend.

TOMORROW Lieut. Connell, writing with full authority of his commander, will take up the narrative.

BY COMMANDER JOHN RODGERS.

Commander West Coast Hawaii Flight Unit.
CHAPTER II.

(Copyright 1925 by the New York Times.
By wireless to The Chicago Tribune and the New York Times.)

HONOLULU, Sept. 19.—The day of the flight was set for Aug. 28, at which time the destroyers and guard ships were to be ready to leave as soon as the weather and other conditions permitted. Tomorrow the planes were not strong enough to warrant his proceeding and asked for a six day delay, to strengthen them. These foundations we had taken as many of the planes safely to Hawaii as possible in order to demonstrate definitely that the flight could be performed if it were ever necessary to fly a large number of planes from the mainland to Honolulu. The PN-9s were ready and on the 28th the question of far as preparation was concerned, they could never be got into better condition. They were lying in the water, filled up with gasoline and fully equipped. The tide would turn favorably at just the right time on Monday. The weather men predicted unanimously the best possible conditions for a start on the following day.

To day then for any length of time we were to defer departure from the PN-9s arrival at Honolulu in order to give the PB-1 a doubtful chance. I did not believe two days, or several days would be sufficient, after the excessive amount of work that had been done on her to get her ready to start and give her crew an opportunity to get off the ship immediately after the start of the PN-9s, particularly during the last few days.

I said further that so far as destroying the chances of the PB-1 being the first plane in Honolulu was concerned, I felt that if she started within two days she had no chance at all of being the first plane over, whereas it was far more probable that she would be the second, if not the third, of the PN-9s to reach Hawaii, and that the PB-1 could come along after thorough preparation and get all the glory. Time has shown I was a better prophet than I truthfully thought I was.

Capt. Moses Refuses Delay.

Capt. Moses then said he agreed with what I had said and enlarged upon it somewhat, and pointed out to Strong that it was particularly hard for him to explain the PB-1 because Strong, in his case, was nominated to the command. He made the decision that the PN-9s would fly as scheduled.

Admiral Moffet then said that while he considered that he had no authority in the premises, he agreed with Capt. Moses, although he felt keenly the disappointment of Lieut. Com. Strong and Capt. Moses and all the others who were personally interested in the PB-1 because he had authorized its building on his own judgment and without the full concurrence of his advisers.

It may seem almost ridiculous to those who read accounts of this meeting that so much would have to be said to arrive at a decision to prevent three of the officers from flying. Two of the best enlisted men from deliberately going out with an almost certain assurance that misfortune would follow them. It was, of course, however, a very important matter to all of us, particularly to Strong, but aviators were being dealt with, and I think this evidence gave us great confidence in what Admiral Moffet was continuously up against in dealing with the flying members of his official family. I think it shows further that there are advantages in having level-headed nonflying men to curb the ambitions of "aeronauts."

Strong Near Tears.

Anyway after the meeting both Strong and Davison came forward and shook my hand, indicating that the fight was over and I had won, I suppose, although I could not feel that way about it. It was particularly em-diced. As commander of the unit, however, I did not consider the flight a sporting event, or in any sense a race.

Rodgers Opposes Waiting.

My duty, as I conceived it, was to get as many of the planes safely to Hawaii as possible in order to demonstrate definitely that the flight could be performed if it were ever necessary to fly a large number of planes from the mainland to Honolulu. The PN-9s were ready and on the 28th the question of far as preparation was concerned, they could never be got into better condition.

They were lying in the water, filled up with gasoline and fully equipped. The tide would turn favorably at just the right time on Monday. The weather men predicted unanimously the best possible conditions for a start on the following day.

To day then for any length of time we were to defer departure from the PN-9s arrival at Honolulu in order to give the PB-1 a doubtful chance. I did not believe two days, or several days would be sufficient, after the excessive amount of work that had been done on her to get her ready to start and give her crew an opportunity to get off the ship immediately after the start of the PN-9s, particularly during the last few days.

I said further that so far as destroying the chances of the PB-1 being the first plane in Honolulu was concerned, I felt that if she started within two days she had no chance at all of being the first plane over, whereas it was far more probable that she would be the second, if not the third, of the PN-9s to reach Hawaii, and that the PB-1 could come along after thorough preparation and get all the glory. Time has shown I was a better prophet than I truthfully thought I was.

Aviators' Attitude Toward Risk.

I wish to digress at this point to give an idea of the attitude which, in my experience, is prevalent among aviators toward the risk involved in their work. To do this I will have to violate the confidence of two officers.

Capt. Moses told me that the attitude of the men in the selected group of aviators for a project of this sort was difficult; that no man who was selected the selections were bound to be criticized. Of the seven officers selected, including myself, he said there was only one who received unanimous approval of the other naval aviators. He was the captain of the PB-1. His selection was one criticized. He was considered to be the best and most level-headed of the whole lot of us.

While the work of strengthening the foundation of the PB-1's engines was about at the middle, Lieut. Davison, tired and grimy, stopped turning a jack, and looking at me said:

"We should try to build this plane at this time. What we should do is to slap her together and start on the day set, and if we don't get there that's our business."

And he meant it, he who is considered to be the most level-headed of the lot.

Eager to Take Risks.

I can assure you that there never can and never will be any question of responsible naval officers having to apply pressure to force the aviators to take risks. The chief concern of the hardest duty of the seniors is to hold the young men and make them comply with the safety precautions.

In this attitude Admiral Moffet is always the leader, and should anybody doubt it, it is only necessary for him to call the men of the Bureau of Aeronautics and the circular letters published by that bureau under the signature of its chief.

The date of the flight now being set for Monday, Aug. 31, the PN-9s were ready Saturday and were launched from Crissy Field and flown to San Francisco. The planes were then loaded with gasoline from a barge which had been towed to San Pablo Bay by contractors for our special benefit. In the afternoon both planes were taken off with a full load and set back on the water. The gasoline tanks were again topped off and they were ready for the flight on Monday morning.

Commander Strong announced that it would be impossible for the PB-1 to leave on Monday. This we had all reasoned long before he did, but we hesitated to say anything about it and left it for him to find out the news for himself. He requested two more days.

now his wife, to poison the woman
she first husband, Joseph Herrington, two years ago, was made public today. It is a remarkably human document and tells the true story of the state's case against the young couple.

The facts over the admission in evidence of this confession, and one by one began this afternoon in Judge J. Harwell's court before the hanging jury and a courtroom crowded with women.

What will happen to this slender, brown-eyed woman who sits with her lawyers, swallowing nervously?
Her face is tanned but her eyes are bright. The bald, reddish young man beside her has less of integrity than he has of integrity.

Williamson county is fascinated by the drama. They had been used to watches far more atrocious had been inflicted in this duty old courtroom.

No rose of love, this Ruby Herrington a bride at 15, now in her 20th year.

A woman of the home and the church once. Robert Tate seems nothing new and clean in life when he first went to board there. He, too, joined the Church of God, a Holy order sect.

At first he tried to kiss her,
after he found that he could not obey the "mysterious moralities" that made his heart, was while she was reading the Bible.

A year in jail has left Ruby pale and smooth. Her brown eyes are searching for hope in a stony faced man.

Deny their Confessions.

She was in brown today with wings of gold across her hat, and a thin yellow veil, with white collar and wrist bands like a school girl. She and Robert deny murder now, deny confession. Sheriff George Galligan, Oldham Paisley and others, testified to the fact and signatures in the admission, but the defense will make one argument against their admission tomorrow. In his statement Tate said:

"The first time I met her, was when I first went to board with her father, Albee Cuttsinger, early in 1922 in St. Louis, which is outside of Johnston City, Ill. Although I met her I was never with her until I joined the Church of God a short time after I came to St. Louis. After I joined the church I met her off and on and a short time later I went to board with her father here."

Invited by Husband.

"After I had stayed for a short time I went to Central City, Ky. When I came back John Herrington, husband of Ruby, asked me to come and board with them.

"I came to John's house about the middle of December, 1922, and every-

SHENANDOAH THE TOMB OF HEROES DOING THEIR DUTY

Survivors Tell Stories at Naval Inquiry.

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Zachary Lansdowne and the officers and men with him in the control car went to their death attempting to keep control of the great airship Shenandoah near Avia, O., on Sept. 3, the naval court of inquiry was told today by Col. C. G. Hall, an official observer for the army air service, a survivor of the ship.

Despite the terrific storm buffeting the great ship about, Col. Hall said Commander Lansdowne and his men had not lost control of the ship until the actual breaking up of the craft occurred with the twisting off of the control car. The army colonel was in the control car only when he was convinced the ship was doomed.

Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, navigator, and senior surviving officer, in the first official report made of the disaster, adds his praise to that of Col. Hall. He said that all through the period of uncertainty he did not observe a single person who did not perform his duty fully, efficiently, and well.

No One Lost His Head.

"At no time," he said, "was there a single word spoken out of the ordinary conversational tone. This was particularly true in the case of Lansdowne."

Besides these two officers the court heard stories, some lengthy and others cryptic, of twenty-one other survivors of the disaster, which cost fourteen lives and brought to an end the career of the lighter-than-air fighting ship.

Most of the survivors agreed the ship broke in two near the bow when it was making a second rapid ascent after having come down suddenly from the high altitude at which it was traveling when it exploded. A number of the survivors were awakened either by the rapid rolling and tossing of the ship or the rending noise as the control car and the nose of the craft tore loose from the main section.

Thrilling Stories Told.

There was many a thrilling account of how officers and men saved themselves and each other as the main section settled to the earth after striking clumps of trees; and of how the nose, then the tail, came down, the tail went down and finally held to earth by the shooting up of the helium tanks with pistols and shotguns to release the gas.

Rosendahl, who had been sent out of the control car to supervise the release of gasoline tanks to prevent a possible crash, was in the nose section, as was Col. Hall. Rosendahl told of the rescue of Lieut. Anderson by means of a rope from the keel, where he was barely able to cling, as the gale turned the nose around and around at a rapid rate.

Hall related that he went to the control car at 5 a. m. and described how the ship first went up, then came down and started up again, turning in circles. It was an hour and a half later when the results of a violent gust, that tall shot up suddenly and there was a rending noise.

Realize Their Danger.

"She's gone," Col. Hall quoted Chief Rigor Allen as yelling.

"I called 'everybody out' and began climbing up to the cat walk."

He said that all the men and women were in the control car when he was convinced the ship was doomed.

Colonel Hall added: "An officer called me up quickly, colonel! I ran to give him the news and the car fell away and the car fell."

The court, at its opening session, others came up, however, decided to call for the present only.

DANGEROUS PRECEDENTS.

The papers contain an ever growing list of prohibition injunctions and of buildings closed by federal judges. The reports do not state whether the applications for injunctions were accompanied by the evidence of disinterested witnesses or whether the courts acted solely upon the testimony of paid informers.

We realize that until the Supreme court has passed upon the attempt of the Volstead act to deprive citizens of their constitutional rights to trial by jury, the course of facing federal jurists in the trial courts is a difficult one. The injunction law is on the books and district attorneys use it because judges are more prone to convict than are juries.

The statute they are endeavoring to administer is the most dangerous one placed upon our statute books since the alien and sedition act wrecked the Adams administration, the federalist party, and threatened the constitution itself. Every injunction issued without jury trial, every place of business closed without "due process of law" as that phrase was intended by its framers, furnishes a precedent which may be followed by other judges at other times to justify confiscations of property and deprivations of liberty, as undreamed of today as was the Volstead act in generations past.

While America is passing through a period of utmost conservatism, it is unwise to disregard the radical wave which threatened us shortly after the war and which is threatening all European countries today.

Poland, for instance, has enacted a statute forbidding any individual to own more than four hundred acres of land. The radicals may propose a similar law for this country whenever they can muster a temporary majority of congress and call upon the federal judiciary to divide lands and estates by the process of mandatory injunction.

Such a statute would be no more unconstitutional in the eyes of the framers of the instrument than the Volstead act.

MEDICAL EXPERTS.

A trial lawyer of experience writes to suggest that if the state commission of insanity experts, proposed by the Illinois Medical society, is to be appointed by the governor there would be little or no improvement over present conditions. The hint is important. What is wanted is the raising of expert medical testimony above the suspicion of self-interest or partiality. A panel of political doctors, holding their jobs as plums passed them by the governor, would not carry much weight with the jury or with the public, and would not deserve it.

Our correspondent suggests a plan something like that of New York—that is, that the medical associations shall make up a list of highly qualified specialists, from which it would be the duty of the court to draw. A place on the New York list is said to be regarded as a high honor, while removal by an expert named by the court we do not, as laymen, pretend to say, but at any rate there could be no constitutional objection to a noncompulsory provision of that sort, which might be as effective as a compulsory one, since if the plaintiff refused to submit to examination by an expert or experts having no relation either to the plaintiff or the defendant, the reaction upon the jury could not be favorable. A plaintiff with a real case would welcome the opportunity to have the testimony of a witness the jury would be more inclined to trust than a witness employed by the plaintiff.

At any rate, we hope the Illinois Medical society and the legal associations it has asked to cooperate will work out a plan to be presented to the next legislature. But more than a good plan is necessary. The plan must be sold to the very conservative lawyers who make up the majority of the assembly, men who are likely to view any change in judicial procedure with a cold and unfriendly eye.

TURKEY SHIES AT THE COUNCIL.

Raymond Fendrick reports from Geneva that the Turkish government does not warmly embrace the proposal to submit the Mosul question to the arbitration of the council of the League of Nations. It is a pity Prof. Manly Hudson or the League of Women Voters could not have a few moments with Kemp.

Lacking that advantage the Turkish statesmen look over the personnel of the league councils and harbor suspicions that as an arbitral body it is strangely constituted. There is a British representative, a French representative, a Japanese representative, an Italian representative. Are these gentlemen denatured of their nationality by some mysterious process, or will they heed the direction of the governments that appointed them? Is not the Briton on the council bound to advance the interests of Britain? He would not sit as arbiter on the Mosul case but the relations between France and Italy and Japan and his country are substantial, if sometimes conflicting. Does any one, except perhaps an American legalist, imagine that the Mosul case would be adjudicated by the council on a plane of disinterested altruism and equity? Would not the French vote be cast as the Quai d'Orsay decided it was most profitable to cast it? Would it not go for the Turkish claim if it were deemed desirable to checkmate England at this point and obtain concessions or the cooperation of Kemal? Would it not go for the British claim if French policy ran in that direction? So with the Japanese and the Italian votes and the votes of most if not all of the remaining six members of the council.

Knowing this, the Turkish government concludes, wisely we suspect, that its chances are rather slim before such a tribunal, in an arbitration in which Turkey has no arbiter, and is likely to have no friend. Great Britain demands that Turkey shall agree in advance to accept the decree of the council. If Turkey refused she would be condemned by the "opinion of mankind," if there is such a thing, no matter how unfair the arbitral judgment would be.

The league council is a political agency and Kemal has no illusions on that score. Only in the United States are there people ingenuous enough to think it is anything else. To join the league is to become a part of the expedient and ruthless politics of Europe. A sensible regard for our own peace will continue to keep us out.

NEW PORTAL HIGHWAYS.

Chicago taxpayers must rejoice to learn, as they did last Sunday from an article by J. L. Jenkins, automobile editor of THE TRIBUNE, that the city's portal highways are to receive primary attention next year, when the new $100,000,000 road building fund issue is apportioned. Mr. Jenkins made the announcement on the authority of statements given out last week at the annual gubernatorial gathering at Kankakee, where State Senator Richard Meents pointed out that, while every community is concerned with its own local improvements, the highway system centering in Chicago is most in need of immediate betterment.

"The board has agreed that roads in both bond issue systems, which center in Chicago, demand first consideration," Senator Meents said. "It is there that our worst and most dangerous congestion has developed. State traffic naturally centers in the Chicago terminal, and road conditions there demand immediate relief. Then, too, Cook county pays the lion's share of the state highway revenues and it is only just that its serious road problems should be solved first in any general highway improvement plan."

Chicagoans must echo the senator's statement and give his sentiments the stamp of their approval.

For a city so singularly fortunate in location Chicago is inelegantly hemmed in. Chicago is not on an island nor on a peninsula. The city's immense area and circumference should provide ingress and egress by an unlimited number of radial paths. Yet, north, west, and south, Chicago is hemmed in, and her traffic is squeezed densely into narrow lanes. In these days when life is becoming increasingly dependent on automotive power, to squeeze a community's traffic arteries means to crush some of the vitality out of the community. Growth is retarded; if the pressure is kept up, mortification sets in. The point at which mortification begins is a long way off, but growth and prosperity certainly are being held back. Just as a commanding central position made the country's railway center, so should the city be the focal point of the country's highways. But she will not be, unless new roads, broad roads, good roads are speedily furnished.

From a business point of view, with auto trucks and auto busses increasing in numbers each year, and from a pleasure viewpoint, with other places to go where the gateways are wide and frequently plowed, Chicago is losing money and popularity.

That the first appropriations out of the new bond issue should go toward the Chicago radial system of roads is fair to the state as a whole. Though Egypt is sometimes inclined to doubt it, Chicago is Illinois' nodal point of incidence, at least in the case of roads. And as Senator Meents says, Cook county does furnish the lion's share of the taxes, with his parents to his native country or some other foreign country assumes the citizenship of the person's home country and it is the person's expectation that he is also an alien whose wife is in a foreign country become a citizen of the United States? Can a naturalized citizen lose his citizenship by leaving the U. S.? A minor of naturalized parents left this country in their company and they took up residence abroad. If he returns after he is of age in the United States, he would be considered a citizen because he was born here after he attained the age of twenty-one.

FRED J. SCHLOSSFELD,
District Director of Naturalization.

HUMIDITY IN ROOM.

A. K. writes: Is there any danger to live in rooms of different humidity, and if so, what may the result be?

In order to prevent golter in cities in the goiter belt, Dr. Hathaway advocates adding iodide of soda to the municipal water supply.

The air in the house should have a relative humidity of at least 40%.

Persons who live in air that is drier than that are easily chilled.

They are prone to develop infections of the nose and throat.

THE PREVENTION OF DIPHTHERIA.

In the prevention of diphtheria, it is very important that the vaccination susceptible children should not be exposed to cases of diphtheria nor to convalescents. Exposure to chronic disease is not so important.

Notice first the reference to unvaccinated susceptible children. Almost one half of all children could not have diphtheria if they tried. They are not total cases but they—biologically not anatomically—any ordinary case of diphtheria will expose the unvaccinated. The Shick test is a simple procedure which children can have it done.

Those children who can have it can be protected against it by vaccination.

Coming now to the main question. From whom do children catch diphtheria? Doull and Lampert write: "The diphtheria is spread by persons who have recently recovered from it." Studying nearly a thousand cases of diphtheria in school children in Baltimore they found that about one-fifth of the about 3,000 children in the families of the sick developed diphtheria within one month.

Comparing the risk of living in the house with a case to that of living in the house with a convalescent, the conclusion is that the danger of the former was about ten times that of the latter. Convalescent carriers and other persons who have recently become carriers are more dangerous than old chronic carriers.

In some instances children contract diphtheria in school carriers, but no cases are found to be transmitted from carrier to carrier. But when investigation is carried further it is found that there have been cases in the school within a short time previously, or else there are atypical mild cases attending school at the time. The diphtheria carriers spreading the disease in school at such times have only recently become carriers.

These carriers are found by Doull and Lampert to be in accordance with the laws of probability. There are many exceptions that would help to get rid of the hives?

ASH STEVENS, Listen! Anna Morgan says that she didn't read your review of Peggy Woods' "Candida" but that she thinks you were all wet. We didn't read your review, either, Ash, and we think you all wet, too. We saw beautiful Peggy in Mr. Shaw's little play Sunday night and we think she gave one of the loveliest performances we have ever seen. Mr. Shaw's plays on the stage are about as funny to us as a crutch, and we expected to sleep through all three acts, but Peggy and the very clever actor people around her kept us delighted all evening. And after Anna Morgan and we get through bantering you, Ash, for what you said about Peggy, perhaps (perhaps, mark you) we will read what you said.

History has acknowledged r.h. gridiron stars and r.h. presidents, and—even a r.h. poet who once refused to take off his hat when that Third Napoleon rode down the streets of Paris. And there's never a red-headed man who can imagine how a red-headed man and half-naked women kiss.

TR

IN BEHALF OF SAFER DRIVING

Please Mr. Driver Don't Forget Us!"

School days are here again. Boys and girls by the hundred thousands—the budding flower of America's youth—are trooping schoolward. Four times a day they swarm our boulevards and streets. Four times a day they ford the streams of motor traffic.

Your boys and girls left home this morning—happy, carefree and full of bubbling laughter.

Where will they be tomorrow?

Shall those precious, straight little bodies, bursting with eager energy, tomorrow lie forever still—maimed and crushed because someone failed to observe the rules of safety?

Citizens of America, it is time to put a stop to this menace.

TO MOTORISTS

When you see children, slow down! Sound an unmistakable warning signal! Look out for them when they cross the street, especially from behind parked cars! Keep your eye on the boy on a bicycle. Never take a chance when a child is involved.

When you drive a car, have the same consideration for pedestrians that you expect from drivers when you are walking. When walking, be as careful and polite as you think other pedestrians should be when you are driving.

When at the wheel or in the street be constantly on the alert.

Know the rules of the road and follow them implicitly, always remembering, too, that the other fellow may not know them.

Carry ADEQUATE insurance against all the hazards of motoring; for some accidents are unavoidable.

Ask for a copy of our new 36-page "Preventable Accidents" booklet for motorists and practice the road rules it illustrates.

TO PARENTS

"Look both ways before you cross the street," has been the parting word from parent to child since the days when horse-drawn vehicles and bicycles were the hazard.

In this day of motor vehicles, how desperately urgent it is that parents should redouble their efforts to teach their children caution.

Mothers, use this page as a text and talk to your children about it.

Fathers, tear out this page as a reminder to instruct your family and your employees in the rules of the road. Before one of them is entrusted with your car, be positive that he is letter-perfect in knowing what to do and how to do it in any emergency.

Impress upon them the terrible consequences of personal injury, and that a car is a dangerous weapon—always ready to inflict injury.

Stir every one with whom you have contact into doing something to prevent automobile accidents, and let that something begin with extra care in crossing streets.

TO TEACHERS

Teachers, you have a rare opportunity to instill the practice of safety in the minds of children. There is a respected atmosphere of authority about the things "teacher says" which often carries through to the grown-ups and your influence can do much to relieve the situation.

Teachers were the first to show us that by pictures and by repetition could facts best be put in the mind and kept there. There's the way to teach children safety. Show them pictures. Tell them how to be careful. Repeat it.

You will help to save the lives of "your children" and to spare their parents the agony of having a little one struck down.

Ask us for reprints of this page as well as for copies of other automobile safety posters and cards. Use them in teaching safety lessons to your pupils.

TO CHILDREN

There are many boys and girls who know how to keep from getting hurt by autos. Let's see if you are one of them. Write us a letter and tell: 1, what you do to be careful, and: 2, what you tell your playmates about it.

We will give 100 prizes of $1.00 each for the best letters. Just write in your own words and be sure to answer both questions.

Write your letter as soon as you can, and mail it so it reaches us not later than Tuesday, September 29.

This prize letter contest is open to any boy or girl under 16 years old. Put your age in your letter.

And please remember:

"To look both ways before you cross the street."

"To keep off the street when you are playing."

"Never to run from behind a parked car."

"Always to stop before you run after a ball that rolls into the street."

TO EMPLOYERS

Throughout the city and suburbs, thousands of motor trucks ply daily. Your trucks are among them.

Insurance protection is necessary and sound business, for accidents will occur, but does your obligation stop with the paying of a premium? Are you sure each driver is doing all he can to prevent accidents?

The daily routine has a tendency to make even the most careful driver relax his vigilance at times. Then the trouble starts. You can prevent much carelessness by steady educational work and frequent reminders.

Reward careful drivers. Penalize careless ones. Impress new drivers especially. Be sure they understand that you insist on Safety First. "Lose a Minute—Save a Life."

We will gladly furnish you with picture posters for your bulletin boards. Ask for them along with a copy of our new 24-page "Handbook for Truck Drivers."

THE STADIUM CONCESSIONS,
Chicago, Sept. 17.—Since the publication of a letter from "A Taxpayer" and reply of Edward J. Kelly, president of the South Park commission, I have been waiting and hoping for the matter to receive further definite attention. Complainant admits the charge is the concessionaire, the stadium being guilty of extortion from the concessionaire. In nonconformity with his contract itself. Of course, it would not be expedient to reimburse each individual, but the public treasury should be relieved by a recovery.

the concessionaire has now been relieved and should be treated as an officer whose term has not already expired, and the concessionaire should be refused any future contract. WILLIAM F. FREEMAN.

A SPANISH WAR VETERAN,
Chicago, Sept. 16.—Several weeks ago the national commander, Oscar H. Strom, attorney general for the state of Illinois, wrote you and called attention to the fact that you did not include in your proposed law of compensation for war veterans the names of Spanish War Veterans who had given up their pay or a like column calling attention to the injustice our comrades suffer governmental indifference towards sick and disabled, than any marks you may erect on the famous Tribune Tower is your property you can place anything on it if you and the United Spanish War Veterans or any other organization has no right to complain.

sentiment in this organization THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, owning our building, can do anything with it without any criticism from either organization, and we would have a column in your newspaper listing some public service done by Spanish War Veterans have performed, or a like column calling attention to the injustice our comrades suffer governmental indifference towards sick and disabled, than any marks you may erect on the famous Tribune Tower.

are surprised that our past national commander did not take up the cause of the United Spanish War Veterans, who are fighting for personal tolerance and a return to the old ideals of "mind-your-own-business" and help your fellowman, be the last organization in the world to interfere with the plans of JOHN J. RINGER.

UNION TACTICS,
Sept. 17.—In my place of employment, as a nonunion driver is employed, agents have been here twice trying to persuade us to join. My employer treated them courteously and kindly, asked for a little time to think it over, which, I trust, is the right of an American citizen. The representatives have been present, offering threats and threats and, this morning, swarthy men, armed, with no station at all, said they had called me and hit a poor, defenseless boy here who is not a driver nor in any way concerned with the union. Then they caused their way have stood around outside telling me to keep his hands off all around our store unless he wanted "bumped off," and they wrote liberally about the absolute policies of the union—no matter what they offer.

we always thought the union a good for both capital and labor, and being steadily recognized by leading industries. I should like some one to tell me if a legitimate cause, such as it should be, dictates policy of hoodwinkism and slandering trade support to this sort of alien.

Banquet at Morrison Hotel Is Night's Feature.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

From 10:30 to 11:26 the writer has been listening to something that has made him very happy and making for him, at least, this Monday silent night well worth while.

Otherwise the night was pretty much pure silent except for the nearby Chicago stations. And when I recall that about a month ago I came out for an absolute silent night, beginning Saturday, for the nearby Chicago stations I wonder what I could have been thinking about.

The headlines last night of the nearby Chicago stations was WOK, 820, which station broadcast quiet times for a newly organized "High Noon" club held in the Morrison hotel. The program started with a musical selection. Walter J. Stevenson, basso, warmed up the applause instinct of the thousand or so members present, according to the announcer, with his singing of "The Big Bass Viol." Then followed some songs whose titles I could not catch. This was followed by a tenor whom the announcer repeatedly and unembarrassingly called "Henry," and Henry was acclaimed so strongly that they made him an honorary member. Senator William B. McKinley, the guest speaker of the evening, won rounds of applause.

Before getting away from Chicago, let's mention the work of the Fair store brass band at WHT, 930 to 10, off and on, you know, as is the custom at this station.

Distant stations came in weaker than they did last Monday night. I would say.

Be sure pardon for personal enthusiasm in the following paragraph, for as Charlie Erbstein said at his station, WTAS at 11:45, "We all have our likes and dislikes."

Time 10:50: station evidently WCCO, St. Paul-Minneapolis (which is why lady listeners, there are some) — most interesting. Now a male voice announcing a Beethoven quintet to play Schumann's famous and loveliest of chamber music compositions, Quintette in E Flat major (opus 44). Very faint, part of the time; then surprisingly clear. For the first time I heard this combination of instruments mentioned over the radio: Two violins, cello, viola, and piano.

While this will be the first of the local ensemble orchestras to give local Chicago listeners a treat to this musical masterpiece?

Estate of Joseph Downey Found to Exceed $2,000,000

An inventory of the estate of the late Joseph Downey, contractor and former member of the board of education, filed yesterday in the Probate court, revealed that his estate was larger than originally estimated and had been at first estimated. Mrs. Lena Downey, 5207 Sheridan road, the widow, gets one-half the estate, which is worth more than $2,000,000. The remainder, under terms of the will, made public some time ago, is bequeathed to relatives and charity.

raw material to Europe on credit. Europe paying after the sale of manufactured goods, is revived. Economic experts of world fame are said to be sketching an agreement for economic reciprocity by which American raw material, especially farmers' products, could be advanced to England and Germany. In exchange goods from these countries of the same value as the American articles exported would be allowed to enter the United States free of tariff.

Camer Cites Tariff Weakness.

To simplify Germany's financial difficulties with America, Dr. Schacht plans to unite all the small short-time credits which German industries obtained in America into a big credit to be extended for a year and possibly a year and a half.

American financiers in Europe, however, are endeavoring to place credits and make individual arrangements. Former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, who is in Germany, pointed out that the "American tariff has not always been favorable to the United States trade, especially the farmers."

This big scheme for the division of labor involves foodstuffs and raw material from America and woolen goods, electrical appliances, machinery, farming tools, and fertilizers from Europe.

It is believed Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, will visit America within the next few months to confer with American economists on the problem. Although it is off-

of French & Belgian Furniture

COLBY representatives have returned from France, Belgium and Italy where they purchased, at very low prices, some of the most beautiful and distinctive furniture it has ever been our privilege to show. This furniture will be placed on sale at 9 o'clock this morning. Prices are extraordinarily low, due to the cheapness of the French and Belgian franc and the Italian lire. The lire already had a distinct rise since we bought furniture in Italy. This furniture could not be duplicated today for the price we paid. With more than 21 French francs to the dollar against 5 to the dollar ordinarily; with about 23 Belgian francs to the dollar, whereas there used to be 5 to the dollar; with approximately 28 Italian lire to the dollar, (the price we paid compared with 24 to the dollar today), you can see what opportunities we offer. Whether you buy or not, you should not fail to see this splendid imported display. Orders will be taken for later delivery, if you desire.

FEAR MOSUL ROW WILL BLAZE INTO NEAR EAST WAR

Iraq Asks Britain for Troops, London Hears.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The failure of the league of nations to settle the Mosul boundary question and the repudiation by the Turks of their promise to be bound by the league's decision has created a most serious situation which may lead to war at any moment. The matter has been referred to The Hague court, which in the ordinary course of events would take about six months to decide the points submitted.

The Turks have declared they are no longer bound by their promise to accept the league's intervention and the British also have conditionally withdrawn their promise. The British, as the mandatories of the league, are bound to defend the boundaries of Iraq if the Turks attack.

40,000 Turks on Frontier, Report.

It is certain no aggressive move 40,000 Turkish troops on the Mosul frontier. This is probably an exaggeration like all the Turkish figures, but even so the number probably consists of a large proportion of camp followers—not effective.

The Iraq government has requested that a division of British troops be sent as soon as possible to defend the Mosul frontier against a feared invasion by the Turks, according to advances reaching the Westminster Gazette tonight.

Prime Minister Baldwin will return to London tonight and tomorrow L. S. Amery, British spokesman at the League of Nations assembly at Geneva, where the controversy started, is expected to return to confer with the government.

Blames Fight for Oil.

Commenting on the presence of Soviet warships at Constantinople, the diplomatic correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph writes that as a matter of fact the Turks are being egged on in the Mosul dispute by influences which are decidedly dangerous. "There is an oil syndicate and there are oil interests which has been very active in the lobbies of the League of Nations," the writer says. "It is true that America and Italy, like France, have been assured by Great Britain of liberal participation in the Mosul fields under the British mandate."

Whether with or without official support, there are a multiple of varied efforts afoot to stiffen Turkey in her resistance to the British government's territorial claims on Iraq."

Judge Orders Sanity Test
for Walter Krauser, Slayer

Judge John McGroarty decided yesterday to have Walter Krauser examined for his sanity before he is tried on charges of killing Policeman Ralph Sonnen and Edward J. Murphy, Assistant State's Attorney Michael Rosen concurred. The state appointed Dr. H. Douglas Singer. Dr. Harold S. Hulbert was selected by the defense. Judge McGroarty then picked Dr. Frank J. Gerty, superintendent of the Psychopathic hospital to act as the third man and the representative of the court.

Wabash AvenueFITZNER BRANDS
WOLFF CHARGES
AS UNFOUNDED

While Coroner Oscar Wolff continued yesterday his investigation of the matter that prompted him to discharge his chief deputy, Charles H. Fitzner, the latter issued a strenuous denial that he had been guilty of any wrongdoing.

At the same time Charles V. Barrett, member of the board of review, a leader in Republican politics and Fitzner's sponsor, notified Coroner Wolff that he wished a full report on the matter. Fitzner said the charge that he had taken gold watches from the estates of deceased persons and substituted nickel ones was absolutely untrue. The auction sale of unclaimed effects was carried on without the slightest suspicion of fraud, Fitzner declared.

The discharged chief deputy denied published reports quoting him as promising disclosures which might reflect upon Coroner Wolff.

"There were no irregularities in the coroner's office during my administration as chief deputy," he said. "Had there been I would have known of them. There was a change of the office and it was conducted in a thoroughly honest, efficient manner."

Coroner Wolff last night declared he had nothing to add to his previous statements.

TELEGRAPH AND
PHONE STRIKE
CUTS OFF PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 21.—Paris experienced one of the shortest and strongest strikes in its history today when telephone and telegraph workers quit for two hours as a protest against low salaries. At 11 a.m. the telephone girls took off their headpieces and left their offices, forming laughing groups with telegraphers employed in the cafés. The strike came as a complete surprise, paralyzing business. Communication with the rest of the country and with foreign lands was cut off. The strikers protested that the telephone girls are paid 9,200 francs (roughly, $460) yearly, while school teachers receive 12,000 francs ($600) for seven months of actual work.

AUNT IDENTIFIES SCALD VICTIM AS MARY E. TABOR

Some Relatives Believed Her in Convent.

While Denver relatives of the late U. S. Senator Tabor of Colorado were telling their belief that the real Mary Echo Tabor was in a convent, an aunt was identifying the body of a woman who died of shock and scalds as that same Mary Echo Tabor, heroine of post-Volstead gayety on Chicago's synthetic south side.

Mrs. Ralph G. McCabe, 7531 Rogers parkway, 3515 Cottage grove avenue, last night and studied the features of the woman who had been known to a gay circle as Ruth Tabor of 3502 Ellis avenue. Mrs. McCabe had not seen her niece for about ten years, so the identification was not hurried. Finally she declared the dead woman was her niece.

Funeral Services Today.

The funeral services will be held to day and Peter McCord, manager of a rooming house the Tabor girl owned in Denver, will represent the family.

Also today, Jack Reid, ex-saloon-keeper, will appear before Judge Emmanuel Eller while his counsel make further arguments for his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus. There is no charge against Reid, the police merely holding him for questioning, because his pictures in Indianapolis' fat manure were her handwriting, advising that if she should die he would be directly or indirectly responsible.

Mary Echo Tabor, nicknamed "Silver Dollar" by her father after one of his mines, was found on the floor of the kitchen of her apartment Friday morning. Her limbs had been scalded and she said that she accidentally had spilled hot water on them. She died.

Says Her Heart Was Weak.

A physician, who had been attending her, said her heart was weak and had not been strengthened by the alcoholic mixtures she had been taking.

Among the friends who gathered at the undertaking rooms were many who seemed accustomed to much gayety places.

Her father, the late Senator H. W. A. Tabor of Colorado, only held that office a short time. His serious business has been said to have been the spending of large portions of $10,000,000. Mary is said to have inherited his love for a gay time. She had lost touch with her relatives for years.

PROBE CHARGE OF SPEED TRAP BY N. SHORE POLICE

Books kept by Ralph Sinsheimer, justice of the peace at New Trier, were ordered brought to the state's attorney's office today because of complaints he was fostering a speed trap near Winnetka. Attorney Stuart B. Krohn of the Chicago Motor club was the complainant.

Frank Dennis E. Sullivan Jr., son of the Circuit court judge, was arrested and fined $30 at 3 o'clock in the morning. He was taking a girl home to Highland Park and, according to his story, three men came out of a dark spot on the road and entered an automobile, which he soon thought was chasing him, and he passed the men in his car, robbing him. He stopped on the gas, whereupon they arrested him and took him to the Sinsheimer home. He hadn't the money to pay his fine so, after being detained an hour or two, Sinsheimer accepted as surety the $2,000 diamond studded platinum wrist watch owned by the girl.

Attorney Francis J. Wolley reported the same experience to Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller.

COMMISSIONER OF HEALTH, CHICAGO

Says of

Good Eggs

"Eggs are a superior food . . . Next to milk, one of the best concentrated foods for the young, the old, the well, the sick . . . Eggs are rich in lime, phosphorous and iron—and especially rich in Vitamine A . . . Eggs are one of the chief protein foods—containing nitrogen needed for the growth and repair of the tissues; as well as mineral values absolutely essential to sturdy, disease-resisting bodies—minerals which keep teeth, eyes and hair in good condition.

"The vitamine content of the egg will put a 'kick' in one's life and 'pep' up efficiency. An egg a day makes baby grow; keeps brother strong; brings nature's own bloom to sister's cheeks and lips; keeps mother youthful and helps father bring home the bacon."

HOLD HUSBAND IN DEATH OF MRS. JACOBSEN

Police Quiz Him on Theory of Arson Attempt.

His wife's recent death, which was at first thought to have been a murder, caused Marinus C. Jacobsen, north side cafe owner, to be held prisoner last night. The present police theory is that Mrs. Jacobsen died after an arson attempt resulted in the burning of the building at 535 Rush street, where the Jacobsens conducted a restaurant, and in which fire Mrs. Jacobsen was badly burned.

Jacobsen was not being held in any belief that he was responsible for his wife's death, but rather that he may advise the police concerning the burning of the building.

Mrs. Julia Weenz, 533 Rush street, told Acting Captain Murphy of the Chicago avenue station that she saw an automobile leave the alley soon after an explosion. She said she heard some one say, "Hurry up and get out here."

Clerk Former Waitress.

Other witnesses gave information that the woman was seen running after an automobile on East Grand avenue after the explosion, and from the description it was believed this was Mrs. Jacobsen. Capt. Murphy was of the opinion Mrs. Jacobsen had been severely burned in the restaurant fire and that some man drove her to the lake and she died of heart failure on plugging into the water.

Wendy Bridgeway, former waitress in the Rush street restaurant, who had trouble with Mrs. Jacobsen, came to the police station during the afternoon and satisfied the officials she knew nothing of the mysterious death.

Inquest Is Continued.

Jacobsen was yesterday taken into court on a technical charge of disorderly conduct, due to the statement of a woman that he was running a disorderly house. He obtained a continuance on that charge. Then the inquest over the body of Mrs. Jacobsen was continued, pending further investigation.

TOP OF LADDER HAS LOTS OF ROOM; CLIMB ON UP, GARY ADVISES

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Never before has there been such an abundance of room at the top in business, Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, asserted today in an address before students of New York university.

Mr. Gary advised youths to concentrate on a single line of activity and stick to it. If seeking customers for anything in the world, he said, "do everything reasonable to attract attention and to supply what is wanted." He gave the following rules for success:

Keep appointments punctually; accept the golden rule; remember that every man in business may be a little smarter than yourself; and let the other fellow talk at least half the time.

BRITONS FROWN ON U. S. CONSUL'S TRADE INQUIRIES

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Daily Mail says the American consul general at London is sending a circular to business firms containing a series of questions relating to their business and that the recipients are expressing some surprise over them. The information is intended to be filed in the consular office in London and also in Washington, the department of commerce says.

The questions include to what extent the firm insures its plant and stock, what it buys and where, how many branch houses and travelers it has, the annual volume of business done, and how many persons are employed.

The Mercantile Guardian is quoted by the Daily Mail as saying that such trade inquiries as implemented never has been equaled, even by the German spies' commercial agencies before the war.

[The inquiries mentioned are part of the world trade directory work begun by the department of commerce seven years ago.]

TAKES CONTROL OF $1,000,000 FROM T. E. WILCE

Judge Horner Acts on Advice of Dr. Krohn.

Control of an estate valued at more than $1,000,000 was taken yesterday from Thomas Ernest Wilce, 68 years old, a pioneer in the lumber industry in Chicago, following the verdict of a jury before Probate Judge Henry Horner which found him mentally incompetent to transact business.

Mr. Wilce, according to the testimony of Dr. Roy C. Woods, defendant, had lost all interest in the lumber business which he has operated, with two brothers, for more than half a century. The lumberman's mind had become affected by illness to such an extent that he regarded minor matters as more important than business affairs, according to the doctor.

Wife Asks for Conservator.

Mrs. Susan B. Wilce, 6917 Bennett avenue, Mr. Wilce's wife, represented by Attorney Roy C. Woods, asked for the appointment of a conservator for the estate. Judge Horner appointed the Chicago Lumber and Truss company to take care of Mr. Wilce's business.

George C. Wilce, president and M. Harvey Wilce, vice president and M. Throop street, brothers of Mr. Wilce, were called to the witness stand by Judge Horner.

All the assets of the estate are in the hands of these two brothers, they admitted. It had been expected that George C. Wilce would be appointed as a conservator, but they testified that they believed their brother mentally incompetent. A court battle between the brothers and Mrs. Wilce over the estate was hinted at during the proceedings.

Another witness was Dr. Arthur L. Edison, who attended Mr. Wilce for a year and a half. He told of treating Mr. Wilce for convulsions and also added his opinion that his patient was incompetent to properly handle his estate.

Wilce was secretary of the Wilce lumber company which he entered at the age of 17 years. He was connected with the Wilce flooring company, the Throop Street Auto and Wagon company, the Wilce Farm and Orchard company of Empire, Mich., and the William Oetting Ice and Coal company.

Georgians Lynch Madman Who Killed Asylum Nurse

Milledgeville, Ga., Sept. 21.—(AP)—William Dixon, negro inmate of the state sanitarium for the insane, who last week killed Miss Amy Oxford, a nurse, was taken from the colony farm near here to the Wilkinson county line last night and lynched.

He was chained to a tree and beaten to death with a pick handle.

Miss Oxford, head of the occupation and vocational department of the asylum, was attacked by the negro last Tuesday as she was passing the negro ward and was beaten to death before assistance could reach her.

Failing Health, Failure of Business, Lead to Suicide

Despondent over ill health and the dwindling of his junk business, Frank Stein, 34 years old, cut his throat early yesterday in the bathroom of his home, 1521 South Ridgeway avenue. He died at the Mount Sinai hospital.

FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

Because her mother used it when she was a little girl. Mrs. J. J. Whitney knew the value of Father John's Medicine and has always used it for her own children now that she is in turn responsible for the health and happiness of a growing family of lively children. She, like millions of other mothers has learned to depend on Father John's Medicine when any one of the family has a cold or cough or has become weak or run down. Its pure food elements build new strength to throw off disease. Its healing elements soothe the throat irritation and it helps to drive out impurities. And do not forget it is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

What the Mother of These Children Says

"My oldest boy has had the croup very badly and nothing does so much to relieve him as Father John's Medicine. We are never without it in the house. It is the only thing which relieves the croup for all my children and it also is a fine medicine for anyone who has a cold." (Signed) Mrs. James J. Whitney, Cor. is grim pyorrhea's count

DENTAL STATISTICS tell this grim story: four people out of every five are destined, through neglect, to contract pyorrhea after they pass the age of forty. Thousands younger also suffer.

Pyorrhea is the dread disease of the gums which is responsible often for loss of teeth, rheumatism, neuritis and other dangerous disorders.

It starts with tender bleeding gums. Pockets form below the teeth and poisons spread relentlessly through the body. If you have pyorrhea or any of its symptoms see your dentist at once and start brushing your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums.

To safeguard yourself against pyorrhea make Forhan's your regular dentifrice. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., and contains his pyorrhea liquid which has been used by dentists the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea. If used regularly and used in time it will prevent pyorrhea or check its course. Don't give this insidious disease a chance to start. Start using Forhan's thin very day. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

Today's Beauty Talk

Enjoy a delightful shampoo at very little effort and for a very trifling cost, by getting from your druggist a package of Canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid—enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the dainty lather. Preparation by this thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.

BRITISH LABOR CHARGES BANKS STIFLE TRADE

Its Refusal to Finance Russian Orders.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Sept. 21.—The British workers are worried by a campaign started against them by the Laborites on the left wing of the labor party in the ground that the hegemony of the big banks is stifling British trade and industry.

An immediate complaint is the refusal of the banks to finance British firms which have accepted large orders from Russia. It is being represented that the bank policy is directly responsible for bad trade and lack of employment in Great Britain.

Spurred by Small Merchants.

The attacks are dangerous, because already throughout the country among the small business men and farmers there is resentment over the policy of the five big banks which in recent years have absorbed nearly all the old independent bankers.

In the old days a local man got credit in his local bank on his reputation; now the manager of a branch bank refuses the application to London, which generally refuses it unless gilt edged security is provided. The big five pre-wholesale dealings with the large industrialists. A campaign for the nationalization of banks might therefore appeal to many voters who will anything to help the Socialists.

DENIES HIS AUTO PUT COOLIDGE IN DANGER; FINED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—(UPI)—After having forfeited collateral bond of $35, Nathan D. Smith of Baltimore, whose automobile yesterday narrowly missed President Coolidge, today had the forfeiture set aside, stood trial, and was fined $35.

Smith appeared in court particularly a short time after his case had been called, and the bond ordered forfeited because of his tardiness.

After disposition of the case Smith denied that he had almost run down the chief executive. He asserted that when he turned into the street the President was fully twenty feet away. He insisted his arrest was "unjust."

Give Your Child a Chance!

His summer now. The air is fresh, fragrant, balmy. The doors and windows are open. Inside or out the children can romp and play and fill their little lungs with soft, moist, healthful air.

But what about next winter? Are you going to confine them again in an atmosphere drier than the Sahara Desert—the air in the average home in winter is as dry. What do you suppose an atmosphere so dry and so hot that it shrinks and checks the wall paper and furniture, is doing to your children's lungs? It is not an exaggeration to say that the effect is nearly the same. Do you wonder then that they are cross and irritable, subject to frequent coughs and colds, skin eruptions and kindred ills? This very important matter is at last receiving the attention it deserves. Health Departments, through magazines and newspapers, are beginning a campaign of education about this serious menace to health.

The danger in breathing air devoid of moisture

ART METAL PRODUCTS CO. 514-526

has long been known. And the open pan of water, the make-shift contraptions to hang on radiators, etc., have been devised to overcome it. But nothing heretofore has been developed that so completely and satisfactorily meets all requirements as the Humidifier.

This beautiful art metal radiator shield with humidifying top—filled from the end—completely hides the bare, ugly coils of the radiator, and this dust and germ distributor is made to blend with the artistic harmony of your home and provide the soft, moist air nature intended your children to breathe.

Sturdily constructed of durable sheet metal, heavily coated with baked enamel and finished to harmonize with your scheme of decoration; with no hinges to rust and no openings to mar the beautifully finished top, the HUMIDIATOR has no equal in either value, durability or appearance. The Humidifier is an economical protection to property and the family's health.

BY MORROW KRUM.

All Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich., shot two scores of 70 and was medalist in the qualifying rounds of the Professional Golfers' Association National Championship tournament yesterday at the Olympia Fields Country Club. Watrous shot one round over number three course and the other over course number four.

Watrous played consistently in the medalist honors. In the morning he went out in 21 strokes and returned in 27, and in the afternoon he repeated his first round stroke for stroke.

Second on the list of qualifiers was Wild Bill Mehlhorn, Westmoreland's hard hitting pro. Mehlhorn had 143 strokes for the two rounds. In the afternoon he played number three course in 88. Par is 70. Mehlhorn's putting gave him the low score, for he sank six putts of 30 feet or better.

Sarason, Burke Tied.

Two players tied for third place. They were Gene Sarason, of the Fresh Meadow club, New York, and Jack Burke, of Houston, Tex. Each had scores of 144. Two were tied for fourth place. They were Morris Dutra, Abernethy, N. J., and Harry Cooper, Dallas, Tex., who carded 78-69-147. Cooper's round of 68 for course number three shared with Sarason the honors of the low score in 18 holes.

Mehlhorn led the Chicago players. The other two were Laurie Ayton, Evansville, Ind., and Al Espinoza, Illinois Golf Club, who had 145-146, ten strokes behind the medalists. Espinoza played the morning round in 77 strokes and the afternoon in 75, for a total of 152. Both qualified for the match play.

Played for Last Place.

Sixty-four golfers, who had qualified in sectional qualifying rounds, played in yesterday's qualifying round. The play yesterday was finished at 31, play was 156 or better for the 26th place. There was one place open, and two names were found in the 157th.

The tied men were Ray Dunn of Champaign and Willie Kline, the New York amateur. They shot the hole of honor four courses to break the tie, and Derr got a par while his opponent needed a six, and Derr was counted into the championship pairings.

The feature of the day was the play of Watrous. In the morning on course No. 1, he played the first four holes in 10, 10, 11 and 10, on the fifth and sixth, and finished in par, his card being under par for the first time. In the last nine he played the first seven in par. At the thirteenth he had trouble and needed one more than par. The fourteenth was in par and on the fifteenth he had a birdie. He missed a putt on the sixteenth and got a 4, one over par. He finished the round in par and at 18 holes was even, having a 70.

Hagan Shoots 151.

In the afternoon we got a birdie on the first hole and another on the 8th and four more, finishing them in 52-2 under par. On the 15th, in the ninth he needed two more than par and par finished with a 27-18 hole total of 70 and a 26 hole, or even par for the day.

Hagan, the titleholder, qualified for match play today, shooting 151.

Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J.,
in a 15 round bout
at the Yankee stadium which attracted a crowd of 40,000 fight
crazed boxing followers.

The bout furnished one of the most exciting, bitterly contested ring-battles of the year. The decision of Judges George Kelly and Dick Nugent and Referee Patsy Haley and the verdict, for the most part, was considered fair. Some of the fans, however, disagreed with the decision and there was dissension noted also among the critics at the ringside. The fact remains that any other decision would have been equally unfair. Walker, who made most of the fighting, landed the greater number and more effective blows, and had Shade on the verge of a knockout in the final round.

Eight Rounds for Mickey.

Walker won eight of the fifteen rounds. He carried off the first, third, and fifth, sixth, seventh, eleventh, and twelfth.

Shade won the eighth, ninth and tenth rounds, and in the other four—the second, twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth—he held the champion even.

Supposedly weak at the weight of 144½ pounds, Walker proved himself stronger than Shade who weighed 147 pounds at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when the rivals stepped on the scales in the state athletic commission's offices. This surprisingly favorable element in the combatants' weights was the biggest factor in Walker's victory. He carried the fighting to Shade for the greater part of the battle, took everything Shade had in the infrequent rallies in which the challenger took the offensive and landed by far the most telling as well as the most blows.

Shade's bobbing and weaving style of boxing employed so successfully against Jimmy Slattery recently, was used very little by the challenger tonight. Instead, he felt the impact of Walker's mighty right fist on his ribs and speedily straightened up. In a natural boxing pose Shade was swept before the consistent offensive of Walker and invariably outfoxed by the champion at long range as well as at close quarters.

Champ's Body Blows Punishing.

A withering body fire which Walker started with the tap of the first gong and continued through the first half of the battle, robbed Shade of much of his strength and left the challenger an easy victim of the bull-like rushes and consistent fire of the champion.

The fifteenth session brought out the big action and clearly showed Walker's superiority. A wicked left hook to the jaw, followed by a right to the protruding chin of the challenger, sent Shade back, clutching his stomach and head. He slipped into a clinch when it seemed he must fall, and at close quarters Walker rained rights and lefts on his rival's body and face without a letup.

Shade was in a sorry plight, but he clung grimly until his head cleared, and then came out of the clinch, fighting valiantly. Shade lashed out with right and left to the face, but the blows were weak and only spurred Walker into more rushes, in which he staggered Shade with left and right to the jaw, making the challenger clinch again. Again Shade came out fighting from close quarters, only to be met with another attack to the jaw and body, which had him weary and staggering at the finishing bell sounded.

Shade in Bad Shape.

Shade was in a sorry plight at the finish and looked the beaten boxer, with cuts over both eyes, another under the left eye, and a battered and bleeding nose and mouth and a pair of weary legs, on which to stand erect was a visible effort.

Walker did not get off unscathed. He bled profusely from the mouth, with sharp inflamed nostrils, a swollen nose, and a battered and bleeding mouth and nose and a pair of weary legs, on which to stand erect was a visible effort.

Burns Beats McDermett.

Tiger Jack Burns of Los Angeles was an easy winner over Jimmy McDermott of Terrell, Texas, in the ten round semi-windup. Burns forced the fighters continually.

In the last round, Burns opened up and gave an occasional flash of his ability. In this session he lit go wild right and left swings which reached the jaw and body, and Young Staley smacked a single off the pitcher's shins, but the attack ended when Hartnett forced Staley to second.

Bob MacDonald, heralded for his fire shots, also announced that he would try for the title.

From the amateurs also came entries. Elbridge Robinson, state public links champion and golfer who is known for the timing of his swing, George Dawson, hulky lad from Green Valley, Ben Stevenson, the Beverly favorite, and William Wallace, Cook county champion, entered.

Bob Hartnett, editor of the golf editor of The Chicago Tribune, Tribune Square, Chicago, was the first to enter.

Rebels Score in Fourth.

The boys could not score again, but the Robins were able to get only one more, that coming in the fourth. Cox beat out a hit and went to third on Taylor's blow. The next two men fanned, but a double steal was started and, though Hartnett fanned off and ran down, he wasn't tagged until Cox had scored.

Tony Kaufmann pitched and escaped many tight places, either through his own efforts or sparkling support. Mr. Ehrhardt was a swell hurler after the first inning.

Rebels Score in Fourth.

Franke Welsh of Chicago won from Joe Pashara, of Philadelphia, in the opening round. Eddie Bakalik, of South Chicago, defeated Jack Fink, of the west side, in the third round of the tournament, while Steve Adams' South Chicago, won all the way to Kid Staver, Roseland, in 4 rounds, and Ernie Peters stopped Buster Sariano in the first round of the opening preliminary.

The scores were 6-3, 6-1, 3-2, 6-2.

Gopher Coach
to Introduce Reverse Play

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
The reverse play, a formation made famous by Glenn Warner, Leland Stanford coach, when he was in charge of the Carlisle Indian football teams, will make its bow in the western conference this fall.

This formation, if properly executed, is one of the strongest known to the game and one of unlimited possibilities. Ever since Warner devised the play, coaches of opposing teams have tried to evolve a defense to check it, but with little avail. Stanford used it against Notre Dame last New Year's day in the intersectional game on the coast and obtained excellent results. The Stanford coach will rely upon it to win another Pacific coast championship.

It's a funny thing about vacations. You go away for a rest, but you don't get it. Then after you're home and have worked about a week, you get rested up to where you were before you went away.

Or course, you remember. I went away to Belmont park because I had never been there before when a race meeting was in progress. I had planned to collect some money I thought the orators owed me. Well, I don't care to say much about that, but they owe me more now than they did before I went.

I went to Belmont? It's a wonderful place, so far as seating capacity is concerned and has a beautiful paddock and grounds, but so far as scenic beauty and landscaping is concerned it doesn't compare with what our friend, Col. Matt Winn, gives the Kentuckians, and many of us Chicagoans at Churchill Downs and Latonia.

They are making one improvement that's interesting. The present straightaway is so you can hardly see the horses start, but they're building a new one from a far corner on a bias across the infield with the finish in front of the stand. Futures will be run there hereafter.

Now the Davis cup matches, including those great five set battles in which Ted Williams beat the Frenchmen. I'm sorry Chicagoans will not see La Coste in action, although Borotra has a more winning personality on the courts. I'm sure he will be popular here when he plays at the Chicago Town and Tennis Club in the intersectional team matches at the end of this week.

There's a lot of other things I'll tell you about, but this is just a little note to let you know I'm back.

VACATION REST.

E. VANSTON, Ill., Sept. 21.—Friend Don: Well, my vacation time is up and I'm back all right, so I just want you to know that I'll be down to the office as soon as I get rested a little.

The Passing of Summer.

The summer days are almost gone and fall is drawing near;

The grass, the flowers, and the leaves

Soon all will disappear;

And harvest time in all its prime

Will stay till winter's come.

Penn's Weakness.

While in Philadelphia for the Davis cup matches, The Wake talked with a University of Pennsylvania alumnus about the condition of the Penn football team.

He said Penn had three sets of good backs, three sets of good ends, but he feared for the line. Why?

Because the third string of forwards were not quite up to varsity caliber.

Down east they have respect for Chicago because of its last year's "win now," and more credit given to see Red Grange in action.

Young Staley smacked a single off the pitcher's shins, but the attack ended when Hartnett forced Staley to second.

Three Double Plays.

It was not all jeering that came from the 2,500 shivering fans yesterday, because the Cub relief pitchers are on the field trying to win themselves some time turned out a lot of snappy stuff.

Three times they executed double plays which wiped visiting players off the bases and perhaps saved the game.

Three of the newest recruits, Metzler,

Munson, and Staley, were in the combat and fielded in style.

The latter two got two hits apiece

and fanned in style.

The boys were plenty of cheering in the first inning when the Cub did all of their business.

Aided by one error, they knocked in three runs and then made those three win the game.

Brocklyn had counted one on hits by Corban and Wheat and a sacrifice fly by Fournier.

The Cub's with a single. He advanced on Hartnett's out, after which Freigau beat out a vicious one to right which skipped past Cox for a triple.

He beat out a mite home. Munson singed, scoring Jahn, and then Munson stole second. Grimm slid out

STEADY BUYING ADVANCES WHEAT CORN IRREGULAR

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Persistent buying of wheat futures by houses with eastern connections continues to dominate the market, and while there was a small break early the finish was about the top with net gains of 1 1/2¢. September and December corn, December and May oats and all deliveries of rye sold at a new low on the crop early with a strong rally later on short coverings. Corn, per bushel, lower to 14¢ high. Oats gained 1 1/2¢ to 14¢ lower. Rye was 1 1/2¢ to 14¢ lower.

The persistency with which offerings of wheat futures have been absorbed by houses with eastern connections and the cause of the buying is a mystery. It is true that some account is taken for the buying in the face of what is regarded as an exceedingly bearish position. Local sales early and found offerings light when they tried to cover at the last. The Chicago-Winnipeg difference widened slightly as Winnipeg was heavy throughout the day and gained only 1 1/2¢ while Oats gained 1 1/2¢ to 14¢ lower.

Foreigners Indifferent.

Foreigners showed little interest to the strength in American markets and the export demand from abroad was slow with sales of 500,000 bu in all positions, largely Manitoba, but including 120,000 bu durum.

Liquidation of a line of long September corn was largely responsible for the break in that delivery and net loss of 1 1/2¢. It continued the December along with it. September sold down to 86¢ and December to 86¢, but short covering caused a strong rally after a seven day decline, and the finish was about the top. There was some talk of export business in old corn, but quantities were not large. Canadian wheat 14¢ lower with country offerings to arrive fairly liberal for nearby shipment.

Oats were influenced largely by the action of corn, and while lower early rallied toward the last after a range of 1 1/2¢ to 14¢ for the day.

Rye was weaker and sharply lower.

Provisions Close Higher.

Trade in provisions was small, but with light offerings it took but little commissary house buying to advance prices, and the finish was 1 1/2¢ higher on lard, while ribs were 1 1/2¢ and bellies 1 1/2¢ higher.

FIELD & CO. OFFER FIRST SECURITIES TO PUBLIC TODAY

BY O. A. MATHER.

For the first time in its 65 years' history, Marshall Field & Co., largest dry goods concern in the world, will offer its securities to the public. The Chicago institution today will offer, through its bankers, a $1,750,000,000 debenture bond issue, which will be retired serially in the next 20 years.

Sale of these bonds marks the culmination of one of the largest real estate deals in Chicago's history. The company will purchase the retail store buildings from the Marshall Field estate, which heretofore has owned the buildings as well as the ground. The buildings occupy the block bounded by State, Wabash, Randolph and Washington streets, on the southwest corner of Washington and State and Wabash avenue. It is stated the purchase price was originally cost, less depreciation. The original cost was about $12,900,000.

Interest Rate Is Low.

In addition to the security purchase, it is stated the proceeds of the bond issue also will provide funds for other corporate purposes. There have been reports that the company will erect a 14-story building in the block bounded by Polk, Harrison, Clinton and Canal streets to be used as mart for the whole dry goods trade.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

for medium and weighty stock, which moved another 10¢/lb bringing the price range to the narrowest point since the middle of July. Immense decreases reported in the Chicago supply of lard on hand and urgent outside demand for lower prices hogs have been the governing factors in the market for the last two days. While the extreme top yesterday at $12.55 stands so under the peak previous Monday, the average price at $12.80 shows 6¢c advance in a week. Choice 180@210 lb. averages reached the top, while choice 280 lb. butchers brought $13.40. A week previous 200 pounds were selling at $13.80 and 280 lb stock at $13.10.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Heavy calling of loans, resulting in the marking up of the call money rate from 4.4% to 6 per cent, precipitated a general selling movement in today's stock market, which definitely checked the speculators' enthusiasm for the rise.

The break came after an initial outburst of strength in the motor shares, which carried General Motors, Studebaker and Hudson to new 1925 levels on extreme gains during the week.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 18,000 sheep, as against 8,702 cattle, 15,580 hogs, and 26,311 sheep, the corresponding Tuesday a year ago.

The Pearl Headed Pin

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Ledway and his partner, John Salkirk, are accused of murdering a business man he is supposed to have died in a railroad wreck. Salkirk serves twenty years in prison either he or Ledway was guilty. The Halletts are remodeling their London home. Mrs. Hallett goes there to meet the contractor, Edward March. Ledway appears dressed in a black mask. Colonel Hallett arrives and Ledway, trying to escape through an open graft. The police find the body, holds his wife's story concerning his alibi. March, it develops, is the man who's been mugging people personally his frequent disguise as Corbinian, an art dilettante, and his right as Mr. Ledway's business manager. It is identified by the news that Mrs. Hallett's daughter, Joan, is that of March's son, his uncle, by the papers. The police hunt Salkirk, suspected of killing March.

A pearl headed pin found in the body, which Ledway had taken from Mrs. Hallett's purse. Fearing that her husband will be blamed if the dead man is identified as Ledway, she testifies at the inquest that she had given the pin to March. She weighs 200,000 pounds. Mrs. Hallett, further shaken by the news that March will be tried for the murder, has offered the money to Bristow, and that the latter had declined to take it. When she tells him she recrocks his love, though she has no confidence.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

INSPECTOR RASON CLEARS UP A POINT.

Mr. Hallett checked an exclamation, fell back upon her pillows, and, to his dismay, began first to laugh and then to cry. Joan started toward her, and changed her mind and waited until the hysteria had passed. When Mrs. Hallett was calm enough to listen she said quietly:

"Don't think I'm going back on you, but I've decided that I must know the truth."

"I can't tell you!"

"Then I'm going to find it out. I feel there's a fight on, and I must be told."

"Not darling, you can't judge whether your happiness—"

"I've done with happiness."

The words had slipped out, and Joan regretted them at once. She felt her question before it came.

"Joan, you haven't quarreled seriously with Ray?"

"How could I?" she tossed back. "There was never anything serious between us. We roamed about and back into her own. There she was slowly to take off her outdoor things."

"Saying your own mother is beastly!" she told herself. "But all this is beastly. And I've warned her. And, anyway, I must think about something, so as not to think—not to think—"

But already the tears were on her face and the ache in her heart, and she was alone with the thought that she had surrendered to love too late.

Detective Inspector Rason had been officially present at the inquest on Edward March, but had learned nothing from it.

A wise observer though he was, had discovered at the inquest nothing below the surface except an intrigue between Mrs. Hallett and Mr. March. Even this was no surprise to him. He had guessed at the intrigue the previous night, in Ray Bristow's rooms, when Joan had identified the pearl-headed pin as having recently belonged to her mother.

There was nothing in the supposed intrigue to arouse his professional interest. In the absence of overwhelming proof, it would be absurd on the part of the police to prosecute him.

He had listened with impatience to the heaving by the treasury man. His sympathy, in fact, had veered toward Mrs. Hallett. Only at one point of the hearing had he found himself interested, and that was when the treasurer had asked Mrs. Hallett why the caretaker was not in Cordways House and she had replied that she had sent him back to the flat to get some notes she had forgotten.

"Mrs. Hallett ought to have had the man here to confirm that," was his mental note.

After the rising of the court his mind went back to that point. In reading the report of the case the chief might raise that question.

In ten minutes he had deposited him on the steps of Cordways House, the gas-cooker having answered the door at the third ring.

Potter produced his card.

"I'm investigating the death of Mr. March," he explained, "and there are two or three questions I would like to ask you. I suppose he used to be about town, a good deal, didn't he, since his firm was doing this job, as I understand it?"

There were one or two questions of that nature, intended to lead nowhere, when Rason began to "get close."

"We are trying to trace his movements for the whole of the Monday," he continued. "Now, some notes he left behind refer to an intended meeting here. Do he come here on the Monday?"

"No, sir, I don't think he had the kettle on and was going to have me tea," answered Potter, patient as if he despaired of the detective's memory.

"You're all but about an hour and a half, that is, in the afternoon."

"About an hour and a half in the afternoon?" repeated Rason, and added seriously: "O, well, every little helps. Can you remember now, roughly, what time it was when you left the house?"

Potter scratched his head. Like many another son of the soil, the clock meant little to him, though the time was accurately measured by events.

"Well, Mr. Hallett, his employer, had the kettle on and was going to have me tea," he said again, and took the telephone receiver.

"Well, now, I don't think he had the kettle on and was going to have me tea," replied Potter, patiently as if he despaired of the detective's memory.

"What time would that have been?" asked Rason. "About 5 o'clock?"

"No, sir! I'm never as late with me tea as that. Couldn't have been after 4—before 'al past, anyway."

"I nodded again.

"About half past 4? It was before Mrs. Hallett got here, then?"

"Mrs. Hallett?" asked Potter, uncomprehendingly.

"She was, very carefully now."

"Mrs. Hallett. Or am I getting muddled? Didn't Mrs. Hallett come Monday afternoon?"

"Well, of course, she may have, and again she may not have," answered Rason.

"If she came, she must have come while I was at the flat."

"She didn't see her at all, then? I've got it!" said Rason, encouragingly.

"Mrs. Hallett sent for me?"

"Yes, but what did he want you for?"

"He's not here, he's not here—and he hasn't said nothing since."

"Come straight back here, then, I suppose?" Rason said.

"At least, not before Mrs. Hallett had telephoned to the flat to tell Col. Hallett he had changed his mind and was to come back here."

"What time did you get back here?"

"About 6; the water had got quite cold, and it was time when I left."

"Mrs. Hallett tell you to bring anything from the flat—when she telephoned?"

"Well, I'm much obliged to you, Potter," said Rason, and returned to his seat.

Sharp Tongues and Clever Retorts Are Seldom Engaging

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Enumerating her virtues as a clew to help me decide what's wrong with Joan, young and pretty, but neglected by the boys, she writes: "I am always there with a snappy comeback!"

The snappy comeback is a dangerous thing when you are playing for the popularity that lasts and gets a girl somewhere.

An occasional dash of cleverness in an otherwise dull life may lift the suspicion of dummery. But even that occasional dash must be administered with grace and good humor. There must be no malice or mischief in it. These latter ingredients in a bright saying leave a sting in the memory of one who at the time of its utterance may laugh heartily. And that person may be the very one you were trying to impress.

The snappy comeback is a bad habit to encourage. The laugh it gets in-toxicates the deliverer overmuch. Other opportunities are sought to show how clever one is as retorted. Presently no opportunity comes by without a quick shaft from the clever tongue, and before a girl knows it, she has the reputation of being sharp tongued and finds herself feared a little and loved less for her bon mots. Leave the snappy comebacks to our vaudeville girls. Let the boys do their best, and the girl he visualizes in his dreams of a perfect evening. She is not the one he phones when he is feeling the

PLANS $600,000 GARDEN COURT AUSTIN FLATS

BY AL CHASE.

George H. J. Haas, builder, has drawn plans in association with Architect Paul Hansen, and will start work within thirty days on a $600,000 three-story building on the north side of Lake, between Mayfield and Menard avenues, to contain 100 apartments, of two, three and four rooms each.

The building will be built around a 60x150 court garden, with lagoon, shrubbery, trees, etc., with only a thirty-five foot opening on Lake street. The building will front 460 feet on Lake. In addition to the flats there'll be fourteen shops. Completion date is set for spring.

$160,000 for Tilt Residence.

Joseph E. Tilt, former Chicago shoe manufacturer, now living in Pasadena, Cal., yesterday sold his eighteen room brick residence at the southeast corner of Barry and Sheridan, lot 115x165, to Joseph Regenstein, president of the Transo Envelope company, and also head of the Regenstein-Veedes family.

The price was $160,000. Mr. and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus of Paris and Chicago have been occupying the house for some time. The new buyer will move in shortly.

$300,000 for Warehouse.

The Criswold & Walker Properties trust has sold the six story warehouse at 1501-15 South Dearborn, to Arthur H. Boettcher and John A. Dillner, trustees, for a reported $300,000. Hart & Whetstone, who negotiated the sale, recently leased the property for twenty-five years to the Merchants' Warehouse Co., which occupies it at a reported $22,500 annually.

According to the revenue stamps on the deed, Simon Herman paid Joseph J. Wilson and Patrick J. Sheehan $151,500, subject to $75,500, for the four stores and fifteen flats at the northeast corner of 63d and Paulina, lot 75x125.

The fourteen flats and two stores at 63d and Paulina were sold by Mandel Lipsitz to Virginia Homer for a reported $30,500. Koenig & Rosin and Wolf & Love were attorneys.

C. H. STODDART, AD MAN 50 YEARS, GIVEN BANQUET

Charles M. Stoddart, member of the executive board of the Chicago Advertising council, was given a banquet by advertising men of Chicago and New York last night at a hotel held in the Bismarck Hotel, in celebration of Mr. Stoddart's completion of fifty years in the advertising profession.

Among the guests was Frank A. Munsey, with whom Mr. Stoddart became associated in 1882. At that time Mr. Munsey was publisher of the Golden Argosy magazine. In 1888 Mr. Stoddart became manager and director of the Munsey company in the west, in which capacity he still serves.

Speakers, in addition to Mr. Munsey, were Albert D. Lester, Douglas Malloch, and Gilbert T. Hodges. Several hundred advertising men, many of whom had been trained and aided by Mr. Stoddart, attended.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR H. C. MOIR 59TH BIRTHDAY

Harry C. Moir, president and general manager of the Morrison hotel, was the guest of honor at a surprise party given him by friends in Terrace Garden last night in honor of his 59th birthday.

Major Dever, Chief of Police Collins, civic leaders and notables attended. The party also marked progress on the new addition to the Hotel Morrison, which with further expansions, will be the tallest and largest hotel in the world, its management says.

Considerable frontage on Clark and Dearborn streets and the entire block on the south side of Madison street, between those two streets, is now controlled by Mr. Moir, who started in the hotel business many years ago as a clerk.

PRASE LYLE AS HE OPENS COURT IN OLD RESORT

Will Continue High Bonds, Judge Says.

There was a grand opening yesterday in what formerly was the Pekin cafe, Twenty-seventh and State streets, but this was an opening of a new branch of the Municipal court by Judge John H. Lyle.

Judge Lyle was there to applaud his practice of holding gunmen in high bonds and they told him the public in general endorsed the idea, and praised him for his courage. Judge Lyle said he would continue to do so as long as he is on the bench.
